Genuine Wood TEXTURED Face Siding Maibec Natural tones

Maibec Natural tones reduce the time-consuming maintenance typically associated with exterior siding in a semi-transparent finish. High-precision equipment and the chemistry of next-generation stains allow for a finish process that combines the UV protection of a solid stain with the unmatched charm of a semi-transparent stain. The product's rich and natural finish is produced by combining carefully-selected stains in a two-coat application. Its performance is backed by a warranty closer to those of factory-stained siding in a solid colour.

However, this product requires more maintenance over time than the equivalent product in a two coat solid stain. Maibec Natural tones textured face siding is backed by an 8-year warranty against cracking, peeling or blistering of the stain including labour for the first 5 years. This warranty is conditional upon following the installation and storage requirements, as well as the maintenance requirements described in the Maibec maintenance guide. As a result, and depending on the siding's exposure to the elements, the owner should expect to re-stain (2 coats) Natural tones textured face siding within 6 to 8 years of installation in order to maintain the product's original appearance.

Variations in the stain from one piece of siding to another are due to the natural tones and are part of the intended natural effect. Once the siding is installed, these variations will blend into the wall. As a result, such variations do not constitute a manufacturing defect.

During installation, take note of these variations when arranging the boards on the wall. For a harmonious look, avoid installing several boards with a more pronounced texture together in a small area.
