H2BO shingles – Water-based bleaching stain

IMPORTANT INFORMATION

Our light and dark H2BO water-based bleaching stains are based on a technology that generates faster, more uniform weathering. This process begins as soon as the product is exposed to air.

SEEING SOME DISCOLORATION? DON'T WORRY, IT'S NORMAL!

You may notice some shades in the color appearing through the butts. This is a normal phenomenon of our H2BO stain. The natural wood tones appearing through the stain will start to bleach out in a matter of days as the stain's weathering process is activated by oxygen, water and sunlight.

This difference in tones could be noticeable in rows of shingles installed at different times. However, this difference will even out as the weathering process advances.

Prior to installing your new Maibec H2BO shingles, please read the installation requirements included in the box.
